

Abstract

0055

An apparatus and method for creating lookup tables of approximate floating-point quotients which exactly represent the underlying value, within the range of the specified precision. The lookup tables are created without any extraneous data beyond what is needed and also without sacrificing numerical accuracy, and may be creating for any radix.

20250423 10:50:00